

CLINICALHQ® | OVERVIEW

CLINICALHQ UNDERSTANDS HOME HEALTH

As the number of professionals needed to service in-home therapy solutions grows, traditional methods of in-servicing and validating skill competencies are preventing many agencies from achieving their full potential.

ClinicalHQ addresses these challenges through a combination of innovative training materials, comprehensive testing and risk monitoring, and advanced data analytics.

Founded by industry veterans with thousands of hours in experience delivering new hire training programs, therapist skill checks, and managing teams of clinical and sales professionals, ClinicalHQ delivers revolutionary solutions to the home health industry.

ClinicalHQ is based in Austin, Texas, and operates throughout the USA.

SCALABLE AND AFFORDABLE SOLUTIONS

To meet the growing demand within the home health industry, operators need solutions to their onboarding and compliance programs that can scale to any level, while remaining affordable to the business.

ClinicalHQ utilizes cutting edge technology and solutions to ensure that each agency can achieve its maximum potential regardless of the size of its workforce, or the location of its workers.

By providing centralized communication tools to the back office, management can easily engage with workers on a general or individual basis while improving key performance metrics and revenue.

The availability of constantly updated reference materials, policy guidelines, and process tools increases overall case-load capacity and compliance.

TARGETED INSIGHTS INTO COMPLEX CHALLENGES

The ever increasing scrutiny on the performance of home health providers requires that companies can quickly identify the root causes of systemic challenges to the business.

ClinicalHQ provides comprehensive reporting systems allowing management to develop the necessary strategies to maximize market opportunities while minimizing audit recoupment due to poor documentation.

By streamlining workers with efficient and accessible tools, targeted learning, and reduced clinical burden, ClinicalHQ is a key component in improving employee retention and job satisfaction.
